

'At least 20 dead' in car bomb in Faisalabad, Pakistan

At least 20 people were killed and more than 120 people were injured. However, the death tolls could rise if the number of people injured, are in critical conditions. The car bomb took place in a gas station, which caused the gas cylinders to explode. It's extremely sad to know that Pakistan had gone through this destruction. Many say that this is the first bombing in Faisalabad in the recent years. The destruction caused damage to buildings also. People also said that the bomb was so forceful that it seemed like an earthquake, with smoke filled around everywhere. No one knows who it was done by though. The atmosphere was chaotic and there were dead bodies scattered around here and there. Cranes were brought to the area, because there are chances of people being under the wreckage. Hope that Faisalabad will soon be fine again.
