

My name is Mint. I'm study in Saint John Mary International School and now I'm grade 7. When I grow up I want to be writer. Some people think why have to be writer because can want to be another thing than writer example doctor, teacher, or some job that good than this. But I like to read so, I want to be writer. My dream is have someone read my book that I write and praise my book. But now it is just a dream and so, now I have duty to do that is study and remember what I study. I'm think a job that we choose can be anything that we do and happy. Not just choose to be doctor or something that have much money but we don't happy.
